

Dear Travel Friends,

We know that many of you are ready to travel abroad again, but have some hesitancy especially with the fluidity of COVID. Realizing that you may have questions and concerns about how to stay up to date and navigate the protocols in place for your desired destination, we want to let you know that we have that covered:

Testing

If testing is still required for return to the US in 2022, CETA will make arrangements for a group to get the approved test in the required time frame, while minimizing disruption to the tour schedule. Prior to departure, CETA will provide information about entry requirements to the US and the approximate cost of the test.

Pre-departure requirements

We will inform participants of pre-departure requirements, and if needed, assist the best we are able with completing online forms.

Mask Mandates

Masking requirements may vary by destination. We will inform travelers of the requirements for their tour prior to departure and will keep travelers abreast of the current situation while abroad.

Hotels

We receive COVID protocols with many of the booking contracts for hotels, others post their protocols online.

Restaurants

We are staying informed of the most current guidelines for dining in each destination. Tour leaders will keep their groups informed as needed.

Activities on tour

Depending on the current protocol some activities may need to be rearranged: i.e. smaller groups entering at staggered times.

Daily updates

We are getting daily updates from industry experts and the local media in our destinations.

Please keep in mind that everything is still very fluid. Regulations in place today may change several times between now and departure. It will be more important than ever to have patience and consideration while on tour.

Sadly, we had to cancel the Highlights of London tour shortly before yesterday's announcement that the UK is opening up non-essential travel to vaccinated US citizens without requiring quarantine. Our vendor deadlines preceded the announcement. We still have space on our 2022 tours. Click on the links below for more information.
